

A washing machine with electro-dissociators which are fixed at the water-entry and water-exit, the electro-dissociator connects with a tub for water with positive ion and another tub for the water with negative ion on its separate side, both of the tubs above connect to the drum. And the electro-dissociators are powered by the direction current. The utility is simply installed and used, having less pollution, and can save water.